Swinerton Builders Colorado Expands Project Management Staff

Denver, CO – May 21, 2012 - Swinerton Builders Colorado, has added Jared Hoeflich, Piper Hamill Garrison and John Spight to its project management team.

As Senior Project Manager, Jared Hoeflich is the construction point person working directly in partnership with the entire project team. Hoeflich has played key roles and has been involved in a broad range of high-profile construction projects, including hospitality, multi-family residential, mixed-use, municipal, educational, and office facilities. Hoeflich graduated from Bowling Green State University with a degree in construction management.

A Project Engineer, Hamill Garrison joined Swinerton from Acella Construction Corp. in Norwell, MA, where she worked as an assistant project manager. At Swinerton, Hamill Garrison will oversee project information flow. She holds a bachelor's degree in construction management from Colorado State University.

John Spight, also a graduate of Colorado State University's Construction Management program, is a LEED Green Associate and an Assistant Project Manager. Spight has served as an area superintendent, project engineer and assistant project manager on a wide range of construction projects, including hospitality, retail, education, assisted living, multi-family residential, mixed-use and tenant improvements. In his new role, Spight will work closely with the entire project management team to ensure that all administrative policies and procedures are being followed and tracked appropriately.
